MANY VOLUNTEER FOR GOOD ROADS DAY

At the Board of Trade meeting in Ruthenian hall last night the Roads committee recommended in its report that the town with its volunteer workers and teams apply its attention on "Good Roads Day" in Pennsylvania, Wednesday, to the township road around the town from the end of Rostraver street by the cemetery into town through McMahan addition. This was enthusiastically accepted by the Board's passing unanimously a resolution adopting its recommendations.

But before the meeting closed volunteers were called for, men to stand right up in the meeting and say publicly that they would work on Good Roads day for the state of Pennsylvania. Only eight hours were asked for, the meeting to be at the borough line on Rostraver street, near the office of the Wenona coal company.

It was stated that the township supervisors would have the road scraped and rolled, the volunteers being expected to put in their time shaping up the road and taking care of drainage The following men thus agreed to take the pick or shovel, or both, waterbucket or time book: Burges A. G. Dunlap, J. D. Luce, George S. Bowes, Dr A. R Wilson, J Howard Kelly, Dr. H. W Day, H. Dallas McCabe, A. J. Knight, W. S. Bumbaugh, Editor H. R. Pore, E. M. Frye, Max Janavitz, H. Weinberger, J. H. Reese, Dr. W. B. Stewart Frank Bumbaugh and L. X Ely

Other volunteers are expected whose names will be published from day to day and then finally on Tuesday, before the gong rings to "go to work" at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Mrs. J C. F. Motz, chairman of the Woman's Suffrage movement in the county, and local Suffragists will take charge of the luncheon on that day and it is likely it will be served somewhere on the road in the vicinity of the cemetery. Nobody eats who does not work is the slogan.

Anyone desiring to add their names to the list of volunteers should call or address C. L. Schuck, chairman of the roads committee, or hand their names to one of the local newspapers.

Local Man Mentioned In Blackmail Case

J. Mago, a local foreigner, evidently has no fear of Blackhanders or blackmailers, as according to letters mailed by two Pittsburgh people who have been arrested charged with sending threatening letters through the mails, he defied their demands for $5,000. Thomas Dolan and his sister Anna were arrested this week in Pittsburgh, after detectives had for over two years attempted to trace down the origin of numerous letters which had been mailed to prominent people in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

In a letter to Flannery Bros., undertakers of Pittsburgh, the writers who signed themselves "An Old Man and Two Pals" demanded $5,000 just as soon as they had finished the case of J Mago of this city who had defied them An investigation about town and at police headquarters failed to reveal any person by that name here, and it may have been that they used the name only as a bluff in their attempts to secure money from others. When the shack of Dolan was searched a catalogue was found with a list of prominent people to whom letters had been mailed.

Well Known Man Died Last Night

Dell Jeffries, aged 42 years, died last night at the Park hotel, where he has made his home since coming to this city fourteen months ago. He was employed at the hotel as a bar tender and was at work Monday and Tuesday of this week, although he had complained for some time of not being well. Wednesday night he became worse and yesterday Dr. Nasan of McKeesport was called, but when he arrived he saw that there was no hope of saving the man's life and he died a few minutes after nine o'clock, acute stomach trouble being the cause of death.

The deceased was a member of the Elk and Moose lodge of this city and is survived by one brother, H. B. Jeffries, superintendent of the freight depot at Washington, Pa.

A sad incident in connection with his death is the fact that he was to have been married the first week in June to Miss Ella McDermott of Charleroi. The remains will be taken to New Salem, near Uniontown tomorrow on the 12 37 train for burial.

Interesting Arguments Presented

"It costs the American women $90,000,000.00 annualy to change their faces, but if a man changes the face of a check for five cents, he goes to the pen"

This is one of the startling truths William J. H. Boetcker delivered in his lecture before the Board of Trade last night.

Had he gone far enough he would probably have said that the men double this amount for cigars, and tobacco, but he didn't say it. The lecture was all and more than the people expected. There was no admission charged and we have paid countless times $1.00 an evening to hear a talk not half as good.

The Boetcker talk was a treat. It was food for thought for people who want ot think. It opens the doors for a wider knowledge of the future destiny of our people. The speaker dealt with matters of vital interest to the employers of Monessen, to the business men and in fact to all others

"Get together" is his slogan. "We can't get together on religion, social affairs or politics," he said, "but we can get together on the square deal, for everybody believes in a square deal," but, he said, "there are four sides to the square and then the inside, and in order to give everybody a square deal, you must look at the proposition four ways, then from the inside."

He talked about home, about what constitutes a happy home, about the grouchy father and about the kind father whom the kiddies love, and he talked about the sweet loving wife, the woman competent to govern the happy home. He talked about capital and labor and what constitutes the square deal for all. He talked about the employer of labor, revealing the fact that 94 per cent. of labor employers are not in the capitalistic class, but are strugglers to keep people employed and meet the pay role and that more often the one who gets paid on Saturday evening gets the most of the profits. "Wrong impressions" he said are playing havoc wih the American people.

The Boetcker lecture was interesting, pungent and hot stuff right off the griddle. Everybody was pleased with the man and his subject.

COMPLETE PREPARATIONS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

This town will hold its second annual Decoration day celebration May 30. The arrangements are in the hands of the Spanish-American soldiers, and plans on a broader scale than last year have been laid. In order to interest the younger generation and to instill in their minds love of country, the exercises will be held down town ths year instead of out at the cemetery. The band stand in Sixth street park will be used for the speaking. The oration of the day will be delivered by Senator E. E. Robbins of Greensburg, well known to local people and an orator of wide reputation He can be relied upon as having something good to say. There will be a parade, and the sound of the fife and drum as of war times will be heard. This is to be made an annual event with increasing interest from year to year. Gov. Martin G. Brumbaugh has issued the following proclamation:

"In the early sixties a mighty army of heroic Pennsylvanians, under the call of Lincoln and Curtin marched to the defense of their country and to undying fame. Other since have followed their patriotic example. A nation that does not honor its heroic dead is not worthy the respect and loyalty of the living. A nation that is not great in reverence and in gratitude cannot endure.

"In every part of this great nation sleep its soldier dead. They deserve all the lofty enconiums and patriotic utterances that have been and will be pronounced over them. Their graves everywhere should be kept green and their memory fragrant in our hearts.

"At least once a year our people should devote a day to them and to their loved and left as wards of our love and concern. Moreover, in all our schools and churches and in our press and on our platforms our children should be taught the meaning of loyalty, the value of patriotism, the price of peace.

In this year, when across the sea peoples we love are in a most deplorable and unfortunate war, it is most appropriate that we should, in our memorial services, not only pay fitting tribute to the heroic dead, but earnestly and devoutly supplicate Almighty God to stay this tragedy and give to our people and all people guidance to early and enduring peace. Let us forget all past differences, and, remembering only that He 'hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the faces of the earth,' earnestly and commandingly devote our energies to secure peace, lasting peace, holy peace for all His people.

Therefore I, Martin G. Brumbaugh, governor of the Commonweath of Pennsylvania, do hereby issue, this, my proclamation and earnestly request all our people to observe May 30. 1915, as Memorial Day.

"As a part of the fitting observance thereof, I request that bells be tolled from 12 o'clock noon unti 12:05, that flags be placed at half mast, and that all citizens stand with heads uncovered and in solemn silence during this period.

"Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the state, at the city of Harrisburg, this twenty-first day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and thirty ninth

Martin G. Brumbaugh.

Suppressing News.

We often hear some thoughtless fellow say, "If I was running a paper, I would print the news. I don't care who it might hit. If they don't want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble. We remember one particular instance in which a similar remark was made. We had, through the pleadings of an old mother and a tearful sister, "killed" a good story concerning the escapade of a rather worthless young fellow. But to his mother and sister he was not worthless, and they prevailed upon us not to print the item which would disgrace them forever. And we did not print it. So we were accused of cowardice by this certain critic and were told that we did not know how to run a paper. In vain we tried to explain that many things besides our own personal likes and dislikes entered into our labor. It was no use, he said, we should print the news.

Six month later the same man came sneaking up to our house in the dead of night to plead and beg with us not to print a much worse story in which he himself was mixed up. We had the story, but had no intention of printing it, for it was one of those things that it is best for all concerned and for the public, to suppress.

But our critic had heard that we knew the details and, with the unfairness that characterized his first utterance, at once jumped to the conclusion that we would chortle with joy over a chance to flaunt such a choice bit of gossip in the faces of our readers. Remembering his attitude on the other occasion we let him squirm a bit.

We reminded him of his former statement and intimated that he had at that time opened our eyes. "We would publish the news. If anyone did not want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble." He remembered. He admitted that he had so expressed himself. And this case was different. Moreover he was a prominent man—and married—and he had a family—and all of the same stuff that every editor hears when some one gets into trouble.

Well, the story was not printed. It never would have been. But we feel sure that our critic believes that the only thing that kept it out was his "prominence and influence."

No, dear friend, about the only element that was totally ignored in coming to our decision was you, yourself.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, "That editor has quite a head. I'm glad I take his paper. He's got a raft of grit and sand, he prints the news of all the land, he boosts the town to beat the band, and that's the proper caper. He soaks the grafters in the neck, he saves the ship of state from wreck, he's Johnnie on the spot, by heck, when things are in a jumble. He writes the ads that bring the dough, he chases all our gloom and woe, he tells us all we want to know—and yet he is quite humble. He never gets a bit stuck up, he's worked since Hector was a pup to earn his daily bite and sup and have a little over. I know we owe him many plunks, so let us shame the other skunks and furnish him with kale in chunks wherewith to live in clover."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is merely a figurehead, according to Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations. Maybe John D. Sr., keeps him busy figuring up the pennies as they are dropped into the savings bank.

The woman who was sucked into a funnel of the Lusitania and was then blown out by steam and picked up little the worse for her experience is evidently not destined to be drowned at sea.

MANY HEAR GOOD SPEAKER

The Rev. Dr. Wertheimer, the converted Jewish Rabbi continued his series of lectures on "From Egypt to Canaan" in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 2:30. These addreses have been very helpful to all those who have attended the meetings.

At the service in the evening Dr. Wertheimer spoke on "The Lord's Second Coming and Some Signs Pointing Thereto." There was a large attendance which listened attentively to this subject which is so little preached about today and which is so clearly and fully set forth in the New Testament. From what was said it shows that some ministers are sadly neglecting this subject and it would be desirable for the hearers of such to remind them of their duty. When did your pastor preach a sermon on the second coming of Christ, the glorious hope of the church? The doctor refererd to some of the signs of his coming, proving that we are living in the last days.

The Subject for tonight will be "The Great European War." We extend a cordial invittation to all to come and hear this great Bible teacher, such as never been in this community before.

The Town of Hollowell

By EUNICE BLAKE

Edgar Wharton when he came of age inherited $10,000. He did not consider the amount sufficient to compete in trade with the larger concerns doing business in the city and formed a plan to go west and grow up with the country. But with the whole west to choose from he was at a loss where to betake himself.

One day he received a circular directing his attention to the town of Hollowell, in a new fledged state beyond the Missouri river. The circular named numerous advantages that Hollowell possessed. The climate was a perpetual summer; the earth was so rich that seeds dropped anywhere would produce in abundance; the water was as clear as crystal.

"That's just what I'm looking for!" exclaimed Edgar, and he went right off to his fiancee to tell her about it. She was so delighted with the description of Hollowell that she said nothing would please her better than to live in such a place, whereupon Edgar proposed that since the distance there and return was great they be married and go there to remain. To this the young lady agreed. They were wed, and, prepared to settle in Hollowell, they started west.

The circular was signed by one Alphonse Honeydieu, a real estate agent, who was selling town lots in Hollowell like hot cakes. Wharton wrote him that he was coming, and Mr. Honeydieu, who proved to be a French Canadian, met him at the station, a handsome brick structure that bespoke prosperity for the town. He took them to his house in a $3,000 auto and insisted on their being his guests while they looked about them. After a rest overnight he took them on a tour of inspection, calling their attention to various properties that he had sold and resold at rising prices, making a number of persons rich. On the outskirts of the town was a very large factory surrounded by a forest of noble trees, a part of which had been cut down and the timber removed. Mr. Honeydieu explained that the factory was used for the manufacture of wood paper and employed 2,000 hands. It was shut down at the time for the purpose of putting in additional machinery, but would be started again in a week or two.

Then the couple were driven back to the town and stopped at the library, which had been founded by Mr. Gardner Hollowell, the president and principal owner of the wood paper company. There was no one in the building except the librarian, a young woman who was spending her time embroidering. Mr. Honeydieu explained that books could be taken from the library and the citizens of Hollowell usually read them in their luxurious homes.

Mr. Honeydieu told Wharton that there was a tract of land that he thought he could get for him at a bargain in the direction toward which the town was growing. The owner had recently died and his estate must be settled within a given period. There was but little time to effect a sale, and he thought the property could be bought for a song. In a year or two it would be worth a fabulous sum. He drove the bride and groom out to look at it, and they were much pleased.

Wharton told Honeydieu that he wouldn't trouble him to take him and his wife in his auto any more. They would walk about and see the town for themselves. The real estate agent protested against this, saying that his car was especially intended for his clients; that he expected a dozen or two at once in a few days, but just now there was an interval. He couldn't think of permitting them to walk. Edgar insisted, and Honeydieu, when he found that he couldn't prevent Wharton from having his own way, reluctantly consented.

When they were alone Mrs. Wharton remarked to her husband that for such a prosperous place Hollowell looked very quiet. Mr. Wharton said that there were not so many persons in the streets as might have been expected. Meeting a man, Wharton stopped him and was on the point of asking him some questions about the location when Honeydieu swung around a corner in his car, interrupting the conversation by telling Wharton that he had got a price on the property he had shown him so low that it fairly took his breath away.

Mrs. Wharton expressed a desire to do some shopping and insisted on her husband accompanying her. This shut off Mr. Honeydieu, and the couple were left to themselves. Entering a dry goods store, a clerk who had evidently been asleep came forward.

"What's the matter with this place?" asked Mrs. Wharton. "There are a number of attractive buildings, and it looks prosperous, but there are few people in the streets, and there is an absence of hurry."

"I don't mind telling you," said the clerk, "since I'm going away tomorrow, that the town was built by the Wood Paper company. For some reason or other, tariff or trust, the plant has been left to rot away, and every one who bought property here at high prices is trying to sell out for what he can get."

TAINTED POLITICS

By Peter Radford.

This country is suffering more from tainted politics than from any other malady at the present time. There is scarcely a campaign speech made, a platform demand written or a measure enacted into law that does not carry the taint of personal gain of some politician or political faction thereof.

There is more "blue sky" in campaign promises of many politicians running for office than was ever contained in the prospectuses of the boldest promoters of chimerical business schemes. There are more secret combinations formed by politicians in the name of "My Country" than were ever formed under any and all other aliases. There are more political rebates hidden in the phrase "Be it enacted" than were ever concealed under any and all other disguises.

The inordinate thirst for political power and unrestrained passion for mastery has caused more distress in this nation than the greed for gold, and it ought to be regulated by law. No business combination ever pursued their competitors as relentlessly or visited more heartless cruelty upon their customers than a political party that seeks to make junk of an industry, or cripple a business for party success, through tariff measures, political supervision and ofttimes destructive legislation. Many political platforms are as alluring to the voter as the story of the rainbow with its pot of gold and their consummation about as far-fetched. Self-gain is the first law in politics. There are many men in office today who, if they could not shake plums off the tree of American liberty or cut a melon taken from Uncle Sam's commissary, would have less desire to serve the public.

The country is surfeiting with patriots, who will bare their breast to bullets in defense of their country, but there are few men in public life who will bare their breast to voters or run the gauntlet of party disfavor in defense of agriculture or industry. No representative of the people, who will permit personal prejudice to dethrone justice, party success to disfranchise reason or the rancor of a political campaign to influence judgment can render capable service.

The preservation of our prosperity depends upon wisdom, courage and honesty in government, and the American voter should seek these attributes as implicitly as the Wise Men followed the Star of Bethlehem and they will often be found to rest over the stable; the plow or the staff of the shepherd. The surest cure for tainted politics and machine rule is fresh air and sunshine and these important elements are most abundant upon the farm, and when farmers, bankers and merchants are elected to membership in legislative bodies, much of the trouble in government will disappear.

WATERED SECURITIES

By Peter Radford.

Much has been said and more written about the evils of watered stock in big business concerns and the farmers of this nation believe that every dollar written into the life of any business organization, should be able to say "I know that my Redeemer liveth," but farming is the biggest business on earth, and there is more water in its financial transaction than that of any other industry. There is as much water in a farmer's note drawing eight or ten per cent interest when other lines of industry secure money for four or five per cent per annum, as there is in a business paying a reasonable compensation upon the face value of securities representing an investment of only fifty cents on the dollar. The only difference is, the water is in the interest rate in one instance and in the securities in the other.

The promoter ofttimes takes chances and his success is contingent upon the development of the property involved but the usurer, as a rule, takes no chances and his success cripples the property involved. There may be industries that cry louder but none that suffer more severely from financial immorality in both law and custom than that of agriculture.

The farmers of America today are paying $200,000,000 per annum in usury on real estate and chattel loans, and this interest capitalized at five per cent, represents $4,000,000,000 of fictitious values which the farmer is paying interest on. This sum of money is almost equal to the annual value of crops produced in the United States.

The earning power of the farmer's note based upon his interest rate very nearly divides like the earth's surface—three-fourths water and one-fourth land. The largest body of water that floats upon the financial hemisphere now rests upon the farms and its waves are dashing and its billows are rolling against seven million homes threatening ruin and disaster to the prosperity of the nation. Will our public servants who understand how to drain the liquid off industrial properties turn the faucet and let the water off the farms?

It is an admitted economic fact that there can be no permanent prosperity without a permanent agriculture.

Agriculture is recognized as the greatest of all industries and a prosperous, progressive and enlightened agricultural population is the surest safeguard of civilization.

Suppressing News.

We often hear some thoughtless fellow say, "If I was running a paper, I would print the news. I don't care who it might hit If they don't want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble. We remember one particular instance in which a simular remark was made. We had, through the pleadings of an old mother and a tearful sister, "killed" a good story concerning the escapade of a rather worthless young fellow. But to his mother and sister he was not worthless, and they prevailed upon us not to print the item which would disgrace them forever. And we did not print it. So we were accused of cowardice by this certain critic and were told that we did not know how to run a paper. In vain we tried to explain that many things besides our own personal likes and dislikes entered into our labor. It was no use, he said, we should print the news.

Six month later the same man came sneaking up to our house in the dead of night to plead and beg with us not to print a much worse story in which he himself was mixed up. We had the story, but had no intention of printing it, for it was one of those things that it is best for all concerned and for the public, to suppress.

But our critic had heard that we knew the details and, with the unfairness that characterized his first utterance, at once jumped to the conclusion that we would chortle with joy over a chance to flaunt such a choice bit of gossip in the faces of our readers. Remembering his attitude on the other occasion we let him squirm a bit.

We reminded him of his former statement and intimated that he had at that time opened our eyes. "We would publish the news. If anyone did not want to get into the paper, let them keep out of trouble." He remembered. He admitted that he had so expressed himself. And this case was different. Moreover he was a prominent man—and married—and he had a family—and all of the same stuff that every editor hears when some one gets into trouble.

Well, the story was not printed. It never would have been. But we feel sure that our critic believes that the only thing that kept it out was his "prominence and influence."

No, dear friend, about the only element that was totally ignored in coming to our decision was you, yourself.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, "That editor has quite a head. I'm glad I take his paper. He's got a raft of grit and sand, he prints the news of all the land, he boosts the town to beat the band, and that's the proper caper He soaks the grafters in the neck, he saves the ship of state from wreck, he's Johnnie on the spot, by heck, when things are in a jumble. He writes the ads that bring the dough, he chases all our gloom and woe, he tells us all we want to know—and yet he is quite humble He never gets a bit stuck up, he's worked since Hector was a pup to earn his daily bite and sup and have a little over. I know we owe him many plunks, so let us shame the other skunks and furnish him with kale in chunks wherewith to live in clover."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is merely a figurehead, according to Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations Maybe John D Sr., keeps him busy figuring up the pennies as they are dropped into the savings bank.

The woman who was sucked into a funnel of the Lusitania and was then blown out by steam and picked up little the worse for her experience is evidently not destined to be drowned at sea.

MANY HEAR GOOD SPEAKER

The Rev. Dr. Wertheimer, the converted Jewish Rabbi continued his series of lectures on "From Egypt to Canaan" in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 2:30. These addreses have been very helpful to all those who have attended the meetings.

At the service in the evening Dr. Wertheimer spoke on "The Lord's Second Coming and Some Signs Pointing Thereto." There was a large attendance which listened attentively to this subject which is so little preached about today and which is so clearly and fully set forth in the New Testament. From what was said it shows that some ministers are sadly neglecting this subject and it would be desirable for the hearers of such to remind them of their duty. When did your pastor preach a sermon on the second coming of Christ, the glorious hope of the church? The doctor refererd to some of the signs of his coming, proving that we are living in the last days.

The Subject for tonight will b e "The Great European War." We extend a cordial invittation to all to come and hear this great Bible teacher, such as never been in this community before.

The Town of Hollowell

By EUNICE BLAKE

Edgar Wharton when he came of age inherited $10,000. He did not consider the amount sufficient to compete in trade with the larger concerns doing business in the city and formed a plan to go west and grow up with the country. But with the whole west to choose from he was at a loss where to betake himself.

One day he received a circular directing his attention to the town of Hollowell, in a new fledged state beyond the Missouri river. The circular named numerous advantages that Hollowell possessed. The climate was a perpetual summer; the earth was so rich that seeds dropped anywhere would produce in abundance; the water was as clear as crystal

"That's just what I'm looking for" exclaimed Edgar, and he went right off to his fiancee to tell her about it. She was so delighted with the description of Hollowell that she said nothing would please her better than to live in such a place, whereupon Edgar proposed that since the distance there and return was great they be married and go there to remain. To this the young lady agreed. They were wed, and, prepared to settle in Hollowell, they started west.

The circular was signed by one Alphonse Honeydieu, a real estate agent, who was selling town lots in Hollowell like hot cakes. Wharton wrote him that he was coming, and Mr. Honeydieu, who proved to be a French Canadian, met him at the station, a handsome brick structure that bespoke prosperity for the town. He took them to his house in a $3,000 auto and insisted on their being his guests while they looked about them After a rest overnight he took them on a tour of inspection, calling their attention to various properties that he had sold and resold at rising prices, making a number of persons rich. On the outskirts of the town was a very large factory surrounded by a forest of noble trees, a part of which had been cut down and the timber removed Mr. Honeydieu explained that the factory was used for the manufacture of wood paper and employed 2,000 hands. It was shut down at the time for the purpose of putting in additional machinery, but would be started again in a week or two.

Then the couple were driven back to the town and stopped at the library, which had been founded by Mr. Gardner Hollowell, the president and principal owner of the wood paper company. There was no one in the building except the librarian, a young woman who was spending her time embroidering. Mr. Honeydieu explained that books could be taken from the library and the citizens of Hollowell usually read them in their luxurious homes.

Mr. Honeydieu told Wharton that there was a tract of land that he thought he could get for him at a bargain in the direction toward which the town was growing. The owner had recently died and his estate must be settled within a given period. There was but little time to effect a sale, and he thought the property could be bought for a song. In a year or two it would be worth a fabulous sum. He drove the bride and groom out to look at it, and they were much pleased.

Wharton told Honeydieu that he wouldn't trouble him to take him and his wife in his auto any more. They would walk about and see the town for themselves. The real estate agent protested against this, saying that his car was especially intended for his clients; that he expected a dozen or two at once in a few days, but just now there was an interval He couldn't think of permitting them to walk. Edgar insisted, and Honeydieu, when he found that he couldn't prevent Wharton from having his own way, reluctantly consented.

When they were alone Mrs. Wharton remarked to her husband that for such a prosperous place Hollowell looked very quiet. Mr. Wharton said that there were not so many persons in the streets as might have been expected. Meeting a man, Wharton stopped him and was on the point of asking him some questions about the location when Honeydieu swung around a corner in his car, interrupting the conversation by telling Wharton that he had got a price on the property he had shown him so low that it fairly took his breath away.

Mrs Wharton expressed a desire to do some shopping and insisted on her husband accompanying her. This shut off Mr Honeydieu, and the couple were left to themselves. Entering a dry goods store, a clerk who had evidently been asleep came forward.

"What's the matter with this place?" asked Mrs. Wharton. "There are a number of attractive buildings, and it looks prosperous, but there are few people in the streets, and there is an absence of hurry."

"I don't mind telling you," said the clerk, "since I'm going away tomorrow, that the town was built by the Wood Paper company. For some reason or other, tariff or trust, the plant has been left to rot away, and every one who bought property here at high prices is trying to sell out for what he can get."

I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, failing or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

TAINTED POLITICS

By Peter Radford.

This country is suffering more from tainted politics than from any other malady at the present time. There is scarcely a campaign speech made, a platform demand written or a measure enacted into law that does not carry the taint of personal gain of some politician or political faction thereof.

There is more "blue sky" in campaign promises of many politicians running for office than was ever contained in the prospectuses of the boldest promoters of chimerical business schemes. There are more secret combinations formed by politicians in the name of "My Country" than were ever formed under any and all other aliases. There are more political rebates hidden in the phrase "Be it enacted" than were ever concealed under any and all other disguises.

The inordinate thirst for political power and unrestrained passion for mastery has caused more distress in this nation than the greed for gold, and it ought to be regulated by law. No business combination ever pursued their competitors as relentlessly or visited more heartless cruelty upon their customers than a political party that seeks to make junk of an industry, or cripple a business for party success, through tariff measures, political supervision and ofttimes destructive legislation. Many political platforms are as alluring to the voter as the story of the rainbow with its pot of gold and their consummation about as far-fetched. Self-gain is the first law in politics. There are many men in office today who, if they could not shake plums off the tree of American liberty or cut a melon taken from Uncle Sam's commissary, would have less desire to serve the public

The country is surfeiting with patriots, who will bare their breast to bullets in defense of their country, but there are few men in public life who will bare their breast to voters or run the gauntlet of party disfavor in defense of agriculture or industry. No representative of the people, who will permit personal prejudice to dethrone justice, party success to disfranchise reason or the rancor of a political campaign to influence judgment can render capable service.

The preservation of our prosperity depends upon wisdom, courage and honesty in government, and the American voter should seek these attributes as implicitly as the Wise Men followed the Star of Bethlehem and they will often be found to rest over the stable; the plow or the staff of the Shepherd. The surest cure for tainted politics and machine rule is fresh air and sunshine and these important elements are most abundant upon the farm, and when farmers, bankers and merchants are elected to membership in legislative bodies, much of the trouble in government will disappear.

WATERED SECURITIES

By Peter Radford.

Much has been said and more written about the evils of watered stock in big business concerns and the farmers of this nation believe that every dollar written into the life of any business organization, should be able to say "I know that my Redeemer liveth," but farming is the biggest business on earth, and there is more water in its financial transaction than that of any other industry. There is as much water in a farmer's note drawing eight or ten per cent interest when other lines of industry secure money for four or five per cent per annum, as there is in a business paying a reasonable compensation upon the face value of securities representing an investment of only fifty cents on the dollar. The only difference is, the water is in the interest rate in one instance and in the securities in the other.

The promoter ofttimes takes chances and his success is contingent upon the development of the property involved but the usurer, as a rule, takes no chances and his success cripples the property involved. There may be industries that cry louder but none that suffer more severely from financial immorality in both law and custom than that of agriculture.

The farmers of America today are paying $200,000,000 per annum in usury on real estate and chattel loans, and this interest capitalized at five per cent, represents $4,000,000,000 of fictitious values which the farmer is paying interest on. This sum of money is almost equal to the annual value of crops produced in the United States.

The earning power of the farmer's note based upon his interest rate very nearly divides likes the earth's surface—three-fourths water and one-fourth land. The largest body of water that floats upon the financial hemisphere now rests upon the farms and its waves are dashing and its billows are rolling against seven million homes threatening ruin and disaster to the prosperity of the nation. Will our public servants who understand how to drain the liquid off industrial properties turn the faucet and let the water off the farms?

It is an admitted economic fact that there can be no permanent prosperity without a permanent agriculture

Agriculture is recognized as the greatest of all industries and a prosperous, progressive and enlightened agricultural population is the surest safeguard of civilization.

The Doctor's conversion to Christianity is one of the most interesting stories you ever heard. It is a great privilege to hear such a Bible teacher. Everybody welcome. Special offerings taken up at each service during the day.

PILES RELIEVED

Also Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles

Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising improvement is made so quickly that it seems almost miraculous.

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert of Titusville, Pa., vanish before the marvelous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes:

"For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles; at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 50c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."

San Cura Ointment is guaranteed by H. F. Craig, who is the agent in Monessen to help any of the above named diseases or money back. It relieves pain from burns, cuts and bruises, draws out the poison and often heals in a short time. 25c and 50c a jar at Craig's Drug store.

Thaw's Fight For Liberty

Thaw's Nine Year Battle for Freedom

June 25, 1906—Shot and killed Stanford White, famous architect.
Feb. 4 to April 12, 1907—First Trial ending in dissagreement
Jan. 26 to Feb. 1, 1908—Second trial, acquitted on grounds of insanity
Feb. 1, 1909—Committed to Mattewan
Aug. 17, 1913—Escaped from Asylum
Aug. 19, 1913—Arrested at Coaticook
Sept. 10, 1913—Deported to New Hampshire
Dec. 21, 1914—Supreme court ruled that he must return to New York State
Mar. 8, 1915—Tried for conspiracy charge in New York; acquitted
Apr. 23, 1915—Application for jury trial as to sanity was granted

New York, May 17—Unless action by the state authorities prevents the jury trial to establish the sanity or insanity of Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, the famous young millionaire will on June 9 make a new fight for freedom with twelve of his fellow men as the judges.

Nine years of fighting has not lessened the legal battle over Thaw. The young Pittsburgher has spent a million and a half in his efforts for freedom. His present efforts are aimed to keep him out of Mattewan Asylum for the Criminally Insane, to which he was committed after his second trial for murder. The jurors of the first trial believe that Thaw is sane, and those who have come in contact with him believe that his present sanity can be proven.

The opposition of the Attorney General of New York state to the order of Judge Hendrick, granting the jury trial, may interrupt the plan to put Thaw before a jury, or at least may delay the final test.

FOREIGN WINES ADULTERATED

The Journal des Debats, Paris, France, some years ago published the report of the municipal Labratory of Paris—(An institution where food products are analyzed.) From that report we find that in one year, 3,391 samples of wine were examined and the Labratory declared 387 good, 1093 tolerable, and 1911 hurtful—and this is what Americans think to be genuine French Grape Juice. Why such stuff as this, when Speer's Wines made at Passaic, N. J., guaranteed pure and old and certified by the best chemists can be purchased from our druggists and grocers.

They can imitate the name, but they can't equal the quality of

GOOD VAUDEVILLE SHOW AT THE STAR THEATRE

The Star theatre played to the largest Friday night house of the season last evening and everyone of the patrons went away well satisfied that they had more than their money's worth. Manager Cowan certainly has a fine bill for the last two nights of this week including Ford and Foster in an extraordinary musical act, Bert Sounders, the funny Dutchman and Mulane and Montgomery, a big feature act that starred at the Harris theatre, Pittsburgh, two weeks ago. The photo plays are exceptionally good and a record breaking house is anticipated for tonight.

CARD OF THANKS

The children and relatives of the late Mrs. Sarah J. N. W. G. V., the five little girs for their floral tributes. (Signed)

Merdie, James, Afred, Fern Long.

CAMPAIGN SONG

The Antis tell of Awful Things
The woman's vote will do;
Our Western men must suffer much
If Anti tales are true.

Four million voting Western men
Have set their women free.
They do not fear their sister's vote.
Then why, my friends, should we?
Then why, my friends, should we?

In Anti tales of dire results
You never chance on one
That gives the proof of Awful Things
The woman's vote has done

Those Western men see good results
In what their women do:
They do not fear their sister's vote
Then why, my friend, should you?
Then why, my friend, should you?

They gave the vote, State after State,
And always more and more,
Because they saw how well it worked
In the suffrage State next door.

Four million voting Western men
Have set their sisters free—
Our women are as good as theirs—
And so next fall, will we!
And so next fall, will we!
